rerack.me

INDIVIDUAL REFLECTION: VICTOR PONTIS

Sashko Stubailo

Sashko came into this project with a lot of background experience with rails and was definitely the strongest technical member of the team. Sashko was also heavily involved in code review and it was easy to ask him questions. He did a really great job with this project but could benefit in the future from more extensive planning at the beginning.

David Sessoms

David did not have as much background in Rails as Sashko or me but proved himself a willing and adept learner. David wanted to contribute and was willing to tackle difficult tasks even if he didn't know the solution from the beginning. I think David learned a lot through the project and that he will benefit tremendously as we continue to work on rerack.me.

Santhosh Narayan

Santhosh did not seem to come into the project with much coding experience. He had good intentions at the start of the project but they somewhat faded over the course of the project. I think Santhosh would benefit by spending more time on coding projects with other people and by learning to take more initiative to help with the project.
