rerack.me

INDIVIDUAL REFLECTION: OLEKSANDR STUBAILO

Victor Pontis

Victor shared my vision for a successful project. He encouraged everyone to use tools such as Github issues and pull requests to ensure code quality. Victor was dedicated to doing everything the right way and having only high quality code in the project, and spent a lot of time fixing up his pull requests to make them perfect before merging them in. He communicated very well and would often contact team members to remind them about deadlines, meetings, and work that was left to be done.

David Sessoms

Sessoms joined the project with a little less experience than Victor and I, but he was eager to learn and get things done. He would often pick up long-forgotten issues and resolve them, reducing the number of things the team had to worry about. David contributed on the frontend and backend code, and also had lots of great design ideas.

Santhosh Narayan

It seems like the project wasn't as high of a priority for Santhosh as for the others in the team. I think this is totally reasonable, as we set a very high standard for the project and tried to go above and beyond what would be required to earn a good grade. Santhosh contributed a lot of code and tests which helped make sure our website was robust. He also wrote a lot of the design documentation and had many exciting ideas.